Is Georgia a good state to install solar panels?

With higher than average electricity prices and abundant sunshine, Georgia's a pretty great state for solar energy. It may not have the best local solar incentives, but as a Georgian, you can still take advantage of solar's most valuable incentive, the Federal Tax Credit. Here's what you should know about installing solar panels in the Peach State.

Should solar panels face south in Georgia?

It is recommended to install your solar panels facing south in Georgia whenever possible. Facing your panels south maximizes the amount of sunlight they receive over the day. However, you can install them to the southwest or southeast without losing much energy production if your roof does not face true south.
