Solar trains for India - The Earthbound Report

Railways powered directly by trackside solar power are an ingenious idea that I've been keeping an eye on. Developed by the good folks at Possible and operating under the name Riding Sunbeams, the first trial projects are already running in the UK - a world first for directly solar powered trains.. Britain isn't exactly famous for its weather, so if we can do it, ...

Building of the week - the solar canal - The Earthbound Report

The one I wanted to mention today is the solar canal project. After a successful pilot project in 2012, India now plans to build solar panels over the top of Gujarat's extensive network of irrigation canals. Like this: Why on the canal, you may legitimately ask. Surely it's cheaper to put solar panels on the ground, of which there must be
