(Yicai) July 18 -- Jiangsu Linyang Energy is planning to build energy storage facilities overseas, with Southeast Asia, Europe and the Middle East identified as the Chinese smart energy company's three key regions for international growth. Of them, Europe is the priority market, the firm's vice.

Recently, several international companies, including Solaredge, Enphase, Tesla, and Fluence, have released their semi-annual reports for the year 2023. Notably, these reports collectively highlight the sustained growth in the overseas energy storage sector during the first half of the year, with.

But here's the twist: overseas energy storage factories are becoming the ultimate solution for sustainable industrial growth. The global energy storage market already hits a whopping $33 billion annually [1], and factories abroad are racing to adopt these technologies faster than you can say.

"Energy storage is currently one of the hottest industries, and in this fiercely competitive arena, rapid market expansion is imperative," said Lu Danqing, Vice Chairman of Linyang Energy (601222.SH), in a recent interview. She emphasized that energy storage will be the core growth driver for the.
