Generator That Creates Electricity From Gravity ...

The generator works by unbalancing a weight so that gravitational energy becomes available as input to a piezo generator. This means that a gentle breeze is enough to generate the electricity.

Are "gravity generators" kinda stupid? : r/scifi

2 paths to a gravity generator (and other weird stuff) according to 2 scifi authors named Greg. Greg Bear. Matter, at its fundamental level, is composed of programmable particles. With attributes like "mass" and "gravitational attractiveness". Program it right and you can make polarized gravity, fake matter, antimatter.

[General Sci-fi.] How does artificial gravity work exactly?

It is cheap, reliable, and runs on extremely durable microreactors contained within the deck plates themselves. Hence, even when nearly all ship's systems have been damaged or disabled, gravity plating remains operable. Klingon ships, of course run on the less-reliable central gravity generator system.

Gravity Generator Room

The room that provides gravity to the rest of the station and, as such, is a common target of bombers and rogue AIs. The generator itself is located far north, its APC and power source in the room before that, and radiation suits in the next room to protect against the radiation the gravity generator emits while being turned on and/or off.

That's how it suppose to be. Grav generator, tcomms and AI sat start with their own SMES and are not connected to stations grid. Why? So the moment someone plants power sink people won't lose radio communication, gravity and AI. Tcomms SMES on Box is charged to last for about 2h 30 min, grav generator will for sure last 5h without charging.

Gravity Battery at home

Speaking as a Physicist, gravity generators will not work. Any energy you extract from dropping the concrete will be Less than the amount you have to put in lifting the concrete back up. This is a consequence of the second law of thermo.

Gravity Generator

The Gravity Generator is a placeable for Bases and capital vessels. The Gravity Generator creates a specific amount of gravity in a field all around it. The more gravity generators that affect a certain spot, the stronger the gravity is. The Gravity Generator emits a sphere of gravity around it with a diameter of 75 (roughly 37.5 blocks from the center of the generator, or 36.5 blocks ...

Gravity Generator Radius Indicator :: Empyrion

For those of us that build massive ships and bases, can we get an indicator that shows the radius of effect for the gravity generator while placing? It would really alleviate having to count out 80 spaces in every direction to know where and how many generators we need. Thanks!

Question about Gravity Generators? : r/spaceengineers

I ran into the same strangeness. A block is 2.5 meters according to the official wiki. It stand to reason that, given the "zero point" is at the center of the block, setting the range to 1m on the generator would leave a quarter meter of the block along the x, y, z planes without gravity and 2 meters would be enough to cover the generator block and pour over to the adjacent block.

Gravity Generator , Encyclopedia Hiigara , Fandom

Gravity Generators are used tactically to disable the movement of strike craft, leaving them vulnerable. They can also be used to forcibly pull ships in hyperspace out into normal space. Ships pulled out of hyperspace tend to sustain damage. The Kushan and Taidan Empires created Gravity Generators during the Homeworld War. A notable use of this technology was during an ...

What Do You Do With Spherical Gravity Generators?

a fighter sits on the inside of the launch "tube". it speeds up and triggers a sensor. the sensor turns on the first gravity generator, the power of the gravity + thrusters speeds it up immensely, the second sensor is triggered when the fighter passes the generator. what this second one does is it turns the first one off to stop pulling it back

Gravity Generators? : r/AskPhysics

A gravity systems generator would basically have to make more mass. So it's not really actually "that" hard, in fact I think I could make one right now. Take a ball of pretty much anything and spin it, and if  $e=mc^2$  is right, you would have a little more mass, therefore creating a "gravity generator".

in a setting where "gravity generators" are a thing, would it

Even if you have gravity generators, you'd absolutely, 100% still want to build your ships "tower style," with the engine down--it will mean the least amount of work for your gravity generator, which will mean the least amount of energy required from your gravity generator, so it will be the smartest way to use them.
