Thor House Batteries

Currently we recharge these AGM batteries from shore power, the generator or the engine alternator. In the future we plan to put in some solar panels. As a word of caution, before you purchase new batteries, especially lead batteries that have to be positioned right side up, check your battery storage compartment to make sure that they will fit.

RV Battery Guide: House, Chassis, Lithium & More

You'll have a "chassis" (or "start/starting") battery and a "house" battery (or batteries). If you have a travel trailer or 5th wheel (an RV with no engine, that you tow), then you'll only have a house battery bank. Let's briefly look at the difference between RV chassis batteries and RV house batteries. Chassis Batteries

RV House Batteries vs. Starting Batteries: What's the Difference?

A house battery is a deep cycle battery, which means it can provide consistent power over a longer period and can be drained much deeper. This is the perfect type of battery to power the 12V appliances in an RV. The difference in the batteries is in their construction and chemistry. Starting batteries use a lead acid chemistry and design that

Replace house batteries

They are more robust and will handle the deep discharges that house batteries experience. Marine/RV batteries are dual purpose starting/deep cycle batteries and are a compromise. The giveaway is seeing "cold cranking amps" in the specs. True deep cycle 12 batteries are also available but tend to be more expensive than 6V golf cart batteries.

How long do house batteries last?

My engine system sends about 30 Amos to the house batteries while driving. To put 100 AH back into a discharged 100 AH battery, I need to drive 3 hours and that gets it to 85% to 90% charged. The last 15% takes 2 more hours. With 2 batteries, double the driving time. 06-07-2023, 06:32 PM #13: Tha_Rooster. Senior Member

House battery replacement

The house batteries in my ACE are located in a compartment next to the entry steps. It is impossible to see down into the battery cells to check the water level and nearly impossible to get water into the cells. The only way I can see to service the water level is to pull the batteries completely out of the compartment.

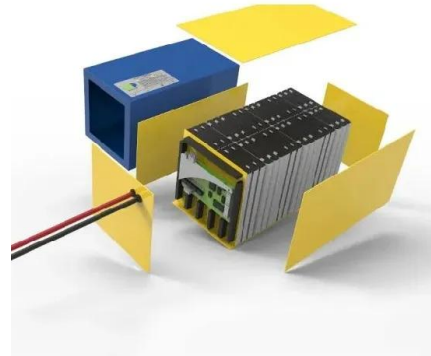

House batteries not charging or won't hold charge

The fix for the house battery is to remove a battery cable or add a simple master disconnect switch. A side note, running every 2 weeks for 20 minutes isn't going to put much charge in the batteries. You may use more energy starting it then you replace. Run it at least 1 hour or don't at all. A disconnected battery will last 4 to 5
