National companies are the best choice for homeowners looking for solar leases or power purchase agreements because they don't qualify for other financing options or the federal tax credit. Find companies with positive customer reviews that use high-quality equipment and employ their own installation crews.

Which solar company should I Choose?

Sometimes, bigger is not always better. It's easy to gravitate toward large name-brand companies like Tesla, Sunrun, ADT Solar, or SunPower. But it's small, local solar energy installers that are often the best choice. Local solar companies generally provide more personalized and attentive customer service.

How can I compare solar companies?

To compare solar providers effectively, create a document with details of each company on one page. This can be done using Excel, Word, or even pen and paper. Include both local and national companies that service your state.

What should I look for when choosing a solar installation company?

A company may have good reviews for installations completed by one crew but bad reviews for others. You should also look for companies that have NABCEP-certified installers. NABCEP is a respected nonprofit organization that provides professional certifications to solar professionals.

Should you choose a local or a large solar company?

When choosing between a local and a large solar company, consider the following: Larger companies typically offer more comprehensive warranties, more payment options, and maintenance services like panel cleaning. However, local companies are often more familiar with your state's rebates and county permitting requirements.
