Question of where does the Paladin's power come from : r/DnD

The paladin's power comes from the absolute and total faith that his/her way is righteous and true, and using that can draw from the "holy" energy that powers the magic in the universe. Currently, one of my characters is a Oath of the Ancients Paladin that thinks god's are funny little things since she serves at the pleasure of the

Le groupe est formé en 2017 à Reykjavik, sous le nom de Paladin avant de changer de nom pour Power Paladin en 2020 [1]. Dans une interview faite en 2022, ils expliquent ce changement de nom : « [Power Paladin] reflète parfaitement ce qu'est le power metal. Les paladins sont des guerriers vertueux qui se battent pour la justice. Le nom lui-même est très exaltant.

Where do paladins get their powers from? : r/DnD

It depends on your world and setting. In some campaigns, like eberon, paladin's and clerics get their powers through faith and conviction, meaning that two paladins can have vastly different views on what their god demands, yet still have powers. In other settings, a god has to choose a character as a paladin and channel their power through them.

Where does the power of a Paladin's Oath come from? : ...

Like the power still comes from a higher being but the powers you get vary based on the oath you take and the rules you have to follow. A paladin of Devotion could follow the same deity as a paladin of vengeance and they both draw power from the same place but because the promises they make are different their powers are different too

Paladins and their source of power : r/dndnext

Paladin's are able to somehow bypass this divine filter and tap the source directly. Otherwise, you could instead say that a paladin still gains their powers from the gods. Perhaps the paladin of vengeance once drew his powers from a god of valour but when he turned to vengeance the god of retribution stepped in to grant them their power.
